

DOD SHELF-LIFE (SL) RESIDENT TRAINING COURSE FY2023 SCHEDULE AND INFORMATION

The DoD SL Resident training course is a two-day resident course taught at Army Sustainment Command's Packaging, Storage, and Containerization Center (ASC PSCC) located in Tobyhanna, PA. It is designed to train military, DoD civilian, and DoD contractor personnel in the policy, principles, standards, instructions, functions, and procedures that apply for management, identification, care, and storage of SL items. It is designed to provide personnel with applicable regulatory guidance for quality control and inspection functions related to the following areas: receipt inspection or processing; scheduling of storage surveillance inspections; inspection marking requirements; lab testing; preparation of documentation; and shipment and disposal of SL materiel. The course uses hands-on practical exercises and a team-based capstone project that thoroughly tests students' understanding of SL as they identify a multitude of real-world SL errors and determine the correct course of action. Upon graduation, students are presented with a DoD SL Training Certificate of Completion, which meets the SL training requirements of DoDM 4140.27 Volume 1, DoD Shelf-Life Management Program: Program Administration, and AR 700-37, Packaging of Army Materiel.

ASC PSCC is considered the DoD source for military packaging training for personnel with functional packaging duties of requirements development. The SL Resident two-day course is the only course of its kind in the DoD that trains personnel in SL management.

The upcoming schedule is available for enrollment in the Army Training Requirements and Resources System (ATRRS):

- Class 001: 26-27 Mar 2024
- Class 002: 16-17 Jul 2024

*Enrollment is open to DoD contractors
